

The would-be fathers experience the pain through a machine that grades the pain on a scale of 10. A man claimed it felt like "being stung by a mosquito" at the beginning of the test, but later he began begging them to stop the machine. [Photo/VCG]

????????????????????????????????10????????????????????"????????"????????????????????

The would-be fathers rest after the test. A doctor said the actual labor pain is much more intensive and can last for hours rather than just a few minutes. [Photo/VCG]

????????????????????????????????????????????