

《英慈善机构筹款为雌雄同体喵星人做性别手术》

A cats charity is raising money for one of its felines to have gender reassignment surgery, after vets realised that it was both male and female.

??

The unusual feline, named Angel by volunteers at Friends of the Cats' Accrington branch, is a hermaphrodite.

Andy Richards, founder of the charity, which fosters stray and feral cats until new homes can be found, said he has never seen anything like it.

Angel, thought to be around three years old, came to the charity when a friend of Andy's called him to say that a cat had walked into the One Stop Shop on Blackburn Road and refused to leave.

Andy, 54, explained: 'Customers kept putting her out but every time the automatic doors opened Angel came back in and sat down.'

Little white and tabby Angel now has to undergo treatment to assign a gender, as hermaphrodite cats can have health problems. The operation will cost around £1,000, which Friends of the Cats will have to raise.
