

《Palace Museum receives record donation》

Artist Cui Ruzhuo has bestowed on Beijing's Palace Museum its largest-ever donation from a single donor. His gift of 100 million Yuan - some 15 million US dollars - coincides with an exhibition featuring his works.

Museum Director, Shan Qixiang, has expressed his appreciation of the artist's generosity, and said a tentative plan is already in place for how the money might be used: one fifth will go to the preservation of relics, and the remainder to staff-training and research. The artist said he owes much to the Palace Museum as, from a young age, he has spent many hours sketching there.

The exhibition runs through May the 25th, and admission is free.
