

《Veteran British band Rolling Stones rocks Havana》

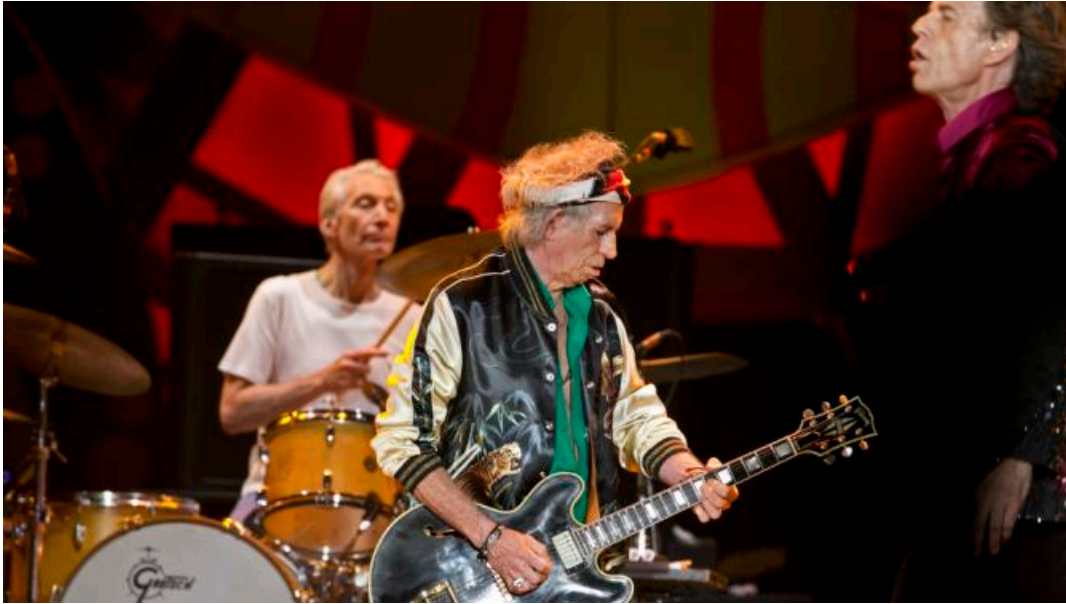

The Rolling Stones have rocked a massive crowd at a free, outdoor concert in the Cuban capital, Havana.

once censored by the communist country, the veteran British band started their first-ever show in Cuba with "Jumpin' Jack Flash," a song recorded in 1968. Lead singer Mick Jagger reached out to his fans, saying it was once difficult to hear their music, but times are changing.

The concert lasted for two hours. Fans started gathering outside the venue 18 hours ahead of time, including foreigners who flew in for the occasion.

The Rolling Stones have rocked a massive crowd at a free, outdoor concert in the Cuban capital, Havana.

The Rolling Stones have rocked a massive crowd at a free, outdoor concert in the Cuban capital, Havana