On the sidelines of the Summit, President Xi also met South Korean President Park Geun-hye. Xi Jinping called for dialogue to resolve what he called the "predicament" on the Korean Peninsula. He said China stands ready to make efforts in a constructive way to resume dialogue within the framework of the Six-Party Talks. He called on all parties to refrain from any rhetoric and act that could escalate regional tension. The two also exchanged views on closer cooperation on Belt and Road Initiative, financial sectors and cultural exchanges.
