

《NATO cyber security drill held in Estonia》

Over 500 computer experts are participating in the world's largest cyber security drill in Estonia. The exercise is part of NATO's efforts to upgrade its capability to counter potential hacker attacks.

Teams from 19 countries and NATO are tasked with maintaining the networks and services of a fictional country under intense pressure. The attacking teams have gathered in Estonia's capital Tallinn, while the defense teams are participating from their home countries through networks.
