Bored Panda invited me to tell my story, so here it is:

????????????????????

I studied law but never practiced and instead worked in the movie business and advertising. Due to personal reasons I started a new job in April 2015. For the fun of it I decided to grow my beard thinking it would be a mess, but people said they liked it. This happened many times and so I realized maybe I should try being a model. I started being more careful with the way I dress and understood that maybe I had something. That is when I went to see agencies, and that's when my career began. I was almost 60 by then.

??60??

I really love what I am doing and get great pleasure from doing it. What else could I ask for? Maybe to work for a huge international campaign like Chanel or Dior. We all have dreams. And this buzz could help. Who knows.
