

《研究发现：看“擦边球”色情影片的人对女性的态度更消极》

导读:据英国心理协会的一项报告显示，经常看色情影片的人会对女性持有消极态度，而经常看“擦边球”影片的人可能会更加看不起女性。

Previous studies have shown links between hard-core pornography and increased sexual deviance, including sex offences, negative attitudes to intimate relationships and acceptance of rape myths.

??

But the effects of soft porn, including images found in tabloid newspapers and websites, are less well studied.

????????????????????“???”????????????????

Sophie Daniels and Dr Simon Duff from the University of Nottingham said this lack of research is surprising, as people are more likely to be exposed to 'soft-core' semi-nude images of women through the media, advertisements and using social media.

??????????????·????????·??“??”????????????????

The pair looked for any links between how much someone was exposed to soft-core images of women and their thinking and behaviour towards women.

??

They found that people who were frequently exposed to soft-core images were desensitised to them and were less likely to describe them as 'pornographic' than people with lower levels of exposure.

[illegible]

In addition, the study showed that people who viewed soft-core images often were less likely to hold positive views of women.

??

However, the researchers add that it's unclear whether the habit drives the attitude or vice versa.

[illegible]

'This research is unfinished at this stage and certainly isn't enough to draw conclusions about cause and effect or

?????????????????????.?????“??”

[illegible]

????????????1000?11?16????????????????????????????????

????????“????????NSPCC”????????????????????“????”????

??

They added: 'Keeping children safe online is one of Government's key priorities. Just as we do offline, we want to make sure children are prevented from accessing pornographic content online which should only be viewed by adults.'

?????“????????????? ??????????????????????????????????????”