Britons turn to poetry to express their feelings on Brexit

To be in the European Union, or not to be? That was the question.

????????????????

After the United Kingdom voted on Thursday to leave the EU, many of its citizens are now turning to poetry to deal with the uncertain aftermath.

??

As a petition calling for a second referendum gained momentum and #regrexit officially became a thing, the #WriteAPoemaboutBrexit hashtag also started to trend on Twitter.

????????????????????#??? ????????#????????? ???????????????????

Hundreds of people have now penned rhymes to express their feelings on the Brexit, with the majority (but not all) lamenting the vote to leave. Here are some of the best:

The people have spoken,
With voices ignorant and loud.
We're abandoning humanity,
I've never been less proud.

Brainwashed by the far right, a victim to your fears
How did you mark your ballot with your fingers in your ears?

Dave tried to save his own skin

By asking Brits to vote out or in

He lost his bet

Many wept

As reality sank in.

Bigotry hijacked the vote

Unleashing real dangers

Now we're strangers in a country

That doesn't welcome strangers
