

导读:近日, 澳大利亚一对情侣的家中迎来了一位不速之“客”--一只考拉。这只考拉钻进二人家中, 坐在暖器旁好好享受了一番。

????????????????????????????????????????--????????????

?????????.?????.????????????????????Soldiers Point????????????????????

????????????????????“????????????????????”

While the koalas appears cute and cuddly, they have been known to act aggressively, especially when feeling threatened.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????

'The dog was barking at him and I could see him get his claws ready to attack the dog,' Vicki said.

"????????????????????"????

'I wasn't too keen to get to close to him, he is a wild animal after all.'

"????????????????????"

She added she was surprised that the koala hadn't torn up the couch with his long claws, which made her think he had a look around the house before choosing his spot on the couch.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????

Vicki's partner Michele Goodman had her bike with her when they entered the room and positioned it between herself and the koala to protect herself, before turning to Vicki to figure out what to do next.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????

After a couple of calls, they got in touch with the Hunter Koala Preservation Society.

????????????????????

'They're a fantastic organisation,' said Vicki.

????"????????????????????"

We called them and it was late at night at this point, but they got out of their beds and came to help us.'

"????????????????????"

While they waited 90 minutes for the koala to be collected, Michele and Vicki took some snaps of their furry house guest, whom they named 'Tuff Bugger'.

“???Port Stephens????????????????????????????????”