"We have decided to move them into... the alternate accommodation that we were in before moving into the village and we will keep them in isolation," Australian team chief Kitty Chiller told reporters at a briefing.

"?????????.....?????????????????????????????????????"

“Just the usual precautionary measures but there will be no interaction between anyone in the village and them for the next 48 hours.”

The irony of suffering gastroenteritis before arriving in Brazil will not be lost on the players, with some athletes concerned about what they might pick up once they start competing.

??

Scientists have found dangerous drug-resistant “super bacteria” off Rio’s beaches and in a lagoon where rowing and canoe athletes will compete.
