

导读:梅姨上任后的第一把火?英国新首相“断电”中法核项目--英国原定周五签署一项在欣克利角兴建两座新的反应堆的计划。但在距离签字仪式开始只有几个小时的时候，特雷莎·梅政府宣布将重新评估该项目。

????????????????????????????? ???????????????“????”?

????????????“????????????”?

????????????????????????????????????????

Officially the Chinese government said it hoped for a speedy resolution.

????????????????

French company EDF, which is financing most of the 18bn pound project, approved its investment last week - but in a surprise move the UK government then said it wanted until early autumn to review the scheme.

??????180????????????????EDF????????????????——????????????????????

China is expected to fund one third of the project.

????????1/3????

On Saturday, former business secretary Sir Vince Cable said then home secretary Theresa May had been unhappy with what she saw as the government's "gung-ho" approach to doing deals with Beijing when they were in the coalition cabinet together.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????

Nick Timothy, Mrs May's chief of staff and a long-time adviser, has also previously expressed criticisms of the Hinkley deal.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????

Writing on the Conservative home website, he said MI5 believes that Chinese intelligence services "continue to work against UK interests at home and abroad".

????????,?????"?????????"????????

Xinhua said the delay "not only draws queries from the international community about its openness towards foreign investment, but also adds uncertainties to the 'Golden Era' of China-UK ties".

?????????"????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????"

It went on: "Giving green light to a 24-billion-U.S.-dollar project can never be an easy decision, and China fully understands and respects British government's requirement for more time to ponder. However, what China cannot understand is the 'suspicious approach' that comes from nowhere to Chinese investment in making the postponement."

???????? "????????240????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????"

The news agency said China could "wait for a rational British government to make responsible decisions, but can not tolerate any unwanted accusation against its sincere and benign willingness for win-win cooperation".

?????"????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????"

Carrie Gracie, the BBC's China editor, said the Chinese government "is on the horns of a dilemma".

BBC???????Carrie Gracie???????“????”?

Prime Minister Theresa May's official spokeswoman said: "Of course with the role that China has to play on world affairs, on the global economy, on a whole range of international issues, we are going to continue to seek a strong relationship with China."

???.??????????“????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????”

