

《温馨一幕：朝韩两国体操运动员奥运会上玩自拍》

导读:体育赛事一向以“友谊第一，比赛第二”为目标，这不朝韩两国的两位选手在里约就展示这一点。一起来看看！

Lee Eun-ju of South Korea and Hong Un-jong of the North took a quick smiling snapshot during the training period before the start of the Games.

??

The pictures of the two women have been widely praised as capturing the Olympic spirit.

????????????????????????????????????

North and South Korea are technically still at war with each other.

????????????????????????????

And relations between the two have been more tense in recent months, with recent missile launches from Pyongyang.

????????????????????????????

"This is why we do the Olympics," tweeted political scientist Ian Bremmer. His tweet was retweeted more than 18,000 times.

????????????????????????????????????18000???

"Sports brings everyone together," said another user on Twitter.

????????????????????????????????????

Others hailed it as the "most iconic photo" of the games.

????????????????????????????????????

Some users however, took a more cynical point of view.

????????????????????????

"Is she allowed to fraternise with the enemy?" was one such question asked, while others questioned whether Hong might face punishment on her return home.

??

Many users were quick to point out the contrasting attitudes portrayed by the South and North Korean athlete in comparison to the Lebanese Olympic Team, who allegedly refused to ride on the same bus with Israeli athletes.

??

According to Udi Gal, a member of Israel's Olympic sailing team, the two teams travelled separately to "prevent an international and physical incident", he said in a post on Facebook.

??

"How could they let this happen on the eve of the Olympic Games? Isn't this the opposite of what the Olympics represents?" he added.

??

Lebanon and Israel are officially at war and have no diplomatic relations.

????????????????????????????????????

