

《Flowery valleys in the village of Castelluccio, Italy》

It is such a wonderful feeling to find yourself surrounded with thousands of blooming flowers. The site and fragrance overwhelm each part of the senses. At 1452 m high, Italy's Castelluccio is the highest village in the Apennines. However, the little village is best known for the colorful valleys, that start blooming in spring and summer. Poppies, rapeseed and wild flowers define the landscape at this time of the year.
