导读:一座奇特的狐狸冰雕吸引了很多人目光，甚至引来众多媒体报道。不过，这座冰雕并非哪位艺术家特意塑造，而是寒冷天气的作品。

A hunter in Germany has put on show a block of ice containing a fox that he says fell into the chilly Danube and drowned, in what he calls a warning of the dangers of the icy river.

??

Franz Stehle, 61, has told news agency dpa that the block containing the fox was extracted from the ice on Jan. 2 and put on display outside his family's hotel in Fridingen. The town is on the upper reaches of the Danube, close to its source in southwestern Germany.

"I went back with a chainsaw in January to take him out," he said.

"I wanted to put him on show to make sure nobody goes onto the ice. People should have respect for nature."

He added that it was not unusual for animals to break through the frozen surface of the river in winter. He says he's seen a frozen deer and wild boar before.
