

《老师买车让学生众筹 这种行为妥不妥》

导读:最近一篇网络上炒得沸沸扬扬的帖文称,武宣某中学一老师为买车,向已经毕业的学生发动捐款,让每个学生为其“众筹”一两百元,并称等学生结婚时再打红包还给学生。该事件引发网友争议。

A teacher who crowdfunded money from students to buy a car in Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region has paid back all the money, according to Nanguo Today, a local newspaper on Sunday.

????????26????????????????????????????????

The teacher from Wuxuan county, whose name was not included in the report, asked some of his students who had already graduated to donate money for him to buy a car, after he confessed to them why he was in need last Sunday, messaging them through QQ.

????????????????????????????????QQ????????????????????????????????????

Screenshots from the instant messaging app were instantly shared on social networks, showing the teacher explaining that he was too ashamed to ask for money from his parents, so he hoped his students could do him a favor by helping him out with some money towards a new set of wheels.

???????QQ??

Netizens quickly responded to the story, with the teacher's plight receiving a mixed reaction.

????????????????????????????????

"Is it voluntary for those students who have graduated to give money?" @leona_gip questioned via her Weibo account.

????“leona_gip”????????“????????????????????”

"This teacher should be fired." @ZDLstay commented.

?????“ZDLstay”????“?????????”

However, an unidentified student spoke up for the teacher, saying “our teacher sees us as his friends so he spoke out, and we want to help him realize his dream of having a car by crowd funding.” The student also added that the teacher had felt regret when he realized he had become a target of criticism online.

[illegible]

The local education authority has reportedly intervened in the case, and asked the teacher to apologize to the public and to pay back the 1,000 yuan (around 145 US dollars) that he received, with a warning that teachers are not permitted to raise money from students.

????????????????????????????????1000???145??