

《共享单车——中国人的一面“照妖镜”！》

China's mobile bicycle-sharing platforms have seen their bikes sabotaged in many cities, as their expansion across the country runs into local resistance.

??

A man in Jinan, East China's Shandong Province was detained after stacking up over 10 bikes provided by the application Mobike at the side of the road because they blocked his newsstand, local police reported on their official Sina Weibo on Saturday.

????????????????????????????????????10????????????????????????????????

In Wuhan, Central China's Hubei Province, several Mobikes were thrown into a ditch by the security guards at a National 5A Scenic Area before being recovered, the Xinhua News Agency reported on Saturday.

????????????????5A????????????????

The East Lake scenic spot said in a statement on Friday that Mobike offers convenience for tourists, but can "disturb the spot's management." The head of security was fired Friday and asked to compensate Mobike for their losses.

[illegible]

Mobike has said they will provide designated parking spaces and employ people to help the public learn how to park the shared bicycles.

??

Ofo-brand sharing bicycles in Xiamen, East China's Fujian Province, a city popular with tourists, have been sabotaged, with the QR codes used to unlock the bikes being defaced or locals attaching their own locks to the bikes, the local West Strait Morning Post reported on Sunday.

[illegible]

To better regulate the bicycle sharing market in the city, the Xiamen Municipal Gardens Bureau has published a guide on parking the bicycles, Xinhua reported on Saturday.

??