

《广东GDP近8万亿，真正富可敌国！》

导读:2016年中国GDP超3万亿人民币的省份达到了9个，其中广东、江苏和山东等省份的GDP甚至比一些世界经济强国还要多。

Southern China's Guangdong province has cemented its position as the country's largest provincial economy for the 28th consecutive year, with a gross domestic product (GDP) exceeding 7.9 trillion RMB ($1.15 trillion) in 2016.

If singled out, the GDPs of a number of Chinese provinces could compete with those of some foreign countries. A 2014 report by Korea Daily quoted a Korean entrepreneur as saying that as early as 2013, Guangdong became the first Chinese province to register a GDP of over $1 trillion. Already larger than many independent economies around the globe, economic performance on the level of Guangdong's is generally seen only in developed countries like the U.S., the article noted.

Last year, nine Chinese provinces registered GDPs above 3 trillion RMB ($436 billion). Jiangsu, which came second on the list, matched the GDP of Mexico, while Shandong pulled even with that of Indonesia; both Mexico and Indonesia rank among the top 20 biggest economies in the world. Henan, with the fifth largest economy in China, beat Argentina, the 21st largest economy in the world.
