广东省广州市将于十月安排举行性文化节，展示性文化，宣传性教育。第10届性文化节将开展格式活动如100多件性文化珍品展示，内衣真人秀等，具体时间是10月日到8日，举办方希望在国庆假期吸引大量游客。

A sex-themed festival is scheduled to open in Guangzhou, in south China's Guangdong province, in October to showcase sex culture and disseminate sex education, the event organizer announced on Thursday.

The 10th edition of the festival will host a variety of activities like exhibitions of 100 ancient sex relics, sexology forums, and lingerie catwalk shows from October 6 to 8, with organizers hoping to attract visitors during the National Day holiday.

Zhu Jiaming, deputy director of the organizing committee, said the event will also feature two photo exhibitions of AIDS-related subjects designed to present the spread of sexually transmitted diseases.

"Though the festival may not easily change people's traditional attitudes about sex, it will increase public awareness of sex education and health," Zhu said, adding that the festival has been attracting more and more young and female visitors since its inception.

Sex-themed festivals are no longer rare in China. Besides big cities like Guangzhou and Shanghai, some relatively conservative inland urban centers like Zhengzhou in central China's Henan province have also held such events.

First launched in 2003, the Guangzhou sex culture festival is reportedly China's largest such event. The previous nine editions attracted more than 3 million visitors, according to the organizer.
