North Korea's state media said in a commentary issued in the name of Kim Chol on Wednesday that China has crossed the red line of their bilateral ties by pushing for tougher sanctions, saying that Pyongyang will never beg for Beijing's friendship.

The Ministry of Unification said that the North made a "rare" direct condemnation of China, given that previously Pyongyang used the term "a neighboring country" when criticizing Beijing.

"North Korea seemed to show a strong reaction as China has joined other nations' move to send a message against its nuclear and missile provocations," said a ministry official, asking not to be named. "Pyongyang needs to pay attention to this message."
