

《芬达推出鸡尾酒口味了》

In a world where seltzer seems to be taking over, sodas are maintaining their relevancy by coming up with every flavor in the book and I'm here for it. Fanta is coming out with a new Piña Colada flavor and it looks like the perfect beverage for drinking as is or for spiking.

??(???)????????????????????

Fresh off the news of the release of cherry vanilla Coke, @Candyhunting posted a photo of the Piña Colada Fanta, with a caption that says the drink is coming out on Monday, February 10. The drink itself is a clear color, and the bottle says that it's made with 100 percent natural flavors. The label also says the drink is caffeine-free.

????????????????@Candyhunting????????????????????????????2210????????????????????100%????????????????

There's no telling if the Piña Colada Fanta will taste more like pineapple or more like coconut, but I'd predict it will be stronger flavors than say, a LaCroix, with a nice balance between the two fruits.

??LaCroix????????????????????

The coconut will make it a refreshing sip, while the pineapple will add a bit of punch with the carbonation.

????????????????????

As for spiking it, there are so many options. My mind first went to adding a splash of Malibu Rum to really take the coconut taste to another level. This Fanta would also be such a good ingredient to add to boozy punch for some extra bubbles.

??

It's not quite clear if Piña Colada Fanta is a limited-edition drink or if it's here to stay, so if you see it on shelves definitely grab it before you miss your shot!

??!

