

《CCTV9英语新闻：美国安全局监控权或受限》

CCTV9英语新闻：美国安全局监控权或受限

Obama hints at data collection rule change

US President Barack Obama says he may be about to rein in some of the National Security Agency's data collection programs.

Speaking at an end of year press conference in Washington, he told reporters that one of the recommendations he's considering is stripping the NSA of its ability to store data in its own facilities. And instead, shift that storage to private phone companies.

