The Mohave County Sheriff's Department says the shooting was accidental and occurred when the recoil from the weapon sent bullets spraying over the girl's head, according to The Washington Post.

In video released Tuesday by the department, Vacca is seen showing the girl how to stand and hold the weapon. The child, who is not being named, fires the Uzi in single-shot mode. Vacca then sets the weapon to automatic, keeping his head near the gun as the girl fires.

On his Facebook page, Vacca's posts ranged from pictures of his target practice to pro-gun rhetoric.

"You can't give a 9-year-old an Uzi and expect her to control it," Scott told the publication. "
