习近平视察武警特种学院呼吁加大反恐力量

Chinese President Xi Jinping has visited the Special Police College of China People ' s Armed Police Force and greeted the officers and soldiers there.

Xi Jinping presented awards at a ceremony for an elite anti-terrorism group on Wednesday. He emphasized the importance of the nation ' s top-level police group and urged the team to have strict management and hard training courses to contribute more to the country ' s fight against terrorism. The president also watched the special police ' s training performance.

The Special Police College was originally established as an anti-aircraft hijacking force in 1982. A number of police forces from the college have served for the country in maintaining stability in past years.
