周三，河南平顶山市鲁山县发生了一起持刀杀人案，8人死亡，其中包括两国孩子。警方已对此展开了调查。嫌犯姓李，40岁，初步调查显示他是因风水不好杀人。

The police have launched an investigation following a stabbing spree in a village in Lushan county, Pingdingshan city, in Central China's Henan province, on Wednesday, which left eight people dead, including two children, chinanews.com reported.

Police detained a man surnamed Li, who is in his 40s, and is suspected of killing the eight people - from three neighboring families - following a row with the families.

A preliminary investigation found that he attacked them because he believed his house has bad feng shui, the traditional Chinese study of geomantic omens usually for buildings or cemeteries.

Further investigation is under way.
