Baby caught by passerby after two-storey plunge

A baby was caught by a passerby after falling two storeys from a building in Ganlan town in Guangdong province, China Central Television (CCTV) reported. The one-year-old got out of a window during a thunderstorm and then slipped. Security cameras trained on the street below show a passerby, surnamed Li, stretching out his arms as the baby falls. He then rushes forward and clings on to the infant amid the pouring rain, as another passerby – a woman – in the background can be seen with an expression showing horror and shock.
