????????632????????????????????14/????????

South China's Guangxi Zhuang autonomous region has begun to sell land use rights for its 632 non-resident islands, with the cheapest price being 14 yuan per hectare per year, Guangxi-based Nanguo Morning Post reported.

Prices are based on a range of criteria including designed functions, with tourism islands generally more costly than forestry ones, and their distance from the mainland. The islands cannot be used for property development.
