A thief was caught in a house where he had been hiding in the attic for three months in Kunshan city, Jiangsu province, reported Modern Express on Monday.

According to the house owner, his money was disappearing from his home but there was no sign of a break-in. On May 29, he found the door locked from the inside while the family was all out. It turned out the thief had access to two residents' houses through a hole in the ceiling. He settled here for long term stealing and sometimes even cooked in their house. The thief is in detention.
