Russian News agency Itar-Tass is reporting that three-party talks between Russia, the Europe union and Ukraine over Russia's gas supplies to Europe are to take place Friday in the Polish capital Warsaw.

Citing an official from the Russian Ministry of Energy, the agency said that Russian Energy Minister Alexander Novak and European union Commissioner for Energy Gunther Oettinger agreed to hold the talks.

Talks scheduled for last Thursday in the Slovakian capital Bratislava between Ukraine, Russia, Slovakia and the European Commission over the gas crisis were called off after Russian and EC representatives pulled out.
