

《瑞士将就超级福利公投 不工作月拿2500瑞士法郎》

导读:瑞士将在6月5日举行公投, 决议是否要每个月发给没有工作的成年人2500瑞士法郎的补助, 以取代其他的福利措施。

Switzerland is considering giving every adult citizen a guaranteed income of $2,500 a month.

The country is holding a national referendum on the introduction of a basic income on June 5. Its supporters want the government to guarantee each person a monthly after-tax income of at least 2,500 Swiss francs ($2,520).

Those in work and earning less than that would have their pay topped up. Those out of work would be handed the full amount.

The income would be unconditional and untaxed, and would replace various welfare payments. The Swiss government, which opposes the initiative, says it would have to find 25 billion Swiss francs a year to pay for the measure. New taxes, or spending cuts, would damage the economy, it says.
