Dialogue 1

W: You're home late today, David. How was school?

M: Not bad. There's a new English teacher.

W: Oh, what's she like?

M: She is beautiful.

W: Is she old or young?

M: She is quite young and her hair is blond.

W: Is she strict?

M: Not really. Her eyes are blue.

W: Can she speak Chinese?

M: Not much. She is very tall and slim.

W: David, stop dreaming. It's time to do your homework.

Dialogue 2

W: I've got a new boss.

M: Oh, what's he like?

W: Well, he's got dark hair and brown eyes.

M: Yes.

W: And a white sports car.

M: Um, that's good.

W: Yes, but he's got a wife and 3 children as well.

Dialogue 3

W: Who's this? your girl-friend?

M: No, it's my sister.

W: How old is she?

M: She's 18.

W: She is tall?

M: Yes, she is.

W: And she is thin, isn't she?

M: Well, just a little thin.

Dialogue 4

W: John, I'd like you to meet Charles Brown, our new manager at the airport.

M: Yes, certainly. How can I recognize him?

W: He is short, well-built, and he's got light blond hair.

M: Is there anything else?

W: He has a mustache, if I remember correctly, and a light complexion.

M: How old is he?

W: He is in his late thirties.

M: Well. I shouldn't have any trouble recognizing him. What time does his flight arrive?

W: At 2:30.

Dialogue 5

M: Is this your new teacher?

W: Yes, it is.

M: Is she short?

W: No, she's average.

M: What color are her eyes?

W: They're dark gray.

M: What color is her hair?

W: It's blond.

M: And how old is she?

W: I don't know.

Dialogue 6

M: What's your new job like?

W: Oh, it's fine. I've got a very nice secretary and a large pleasant office.

M: Um.

W: And a company car.

M: Very nice.

W: Yes, it is. But I've got a lot of work too.

M: Well, that's life, isn't it?

I have never talked to the new people in No. 33. I don't know their names. I think the woman is oriental but she could be South American. She is pretty at least I think so. She is quite short and slim with long black hair. But she's got quite a pale complexion and very beautiful eyes. As to her husband, he is English. There's nothing special about him. His father is quite a different person. He has dark hair and a short black beard. And he's rather fat. Oh, he's about to say 'hi' just to me. I would like to visit them this weekend.
