《“慢就业”的英文怎么说》

With the job market becoming increasingly competitive every year, a growing number of fresh university graduates are opting for "delayed employment".

??????????????????????????????“???”?

According to a survey released by online recruiter Zhaopin on Tuesday, about 9.8 percent of the 93,420 graduates who participated in a written survey said they would not begin working right after graduation.??????????????????????93420?????????9.8%???????????????

??????????????delayed employment???go on a study tour?????participate in a volunteer teaching program???????????????????????????????

??????????????95??delay job hunting to avoid the competition??

?????

??first-tier cities????????33.5%???????new first-tier cities????????????33.1%????????????19.0%???????????????14.4%?

??????new first-tier cities????????????2013???????????????300?????????100?????400??????????? ??????????????????10????????????15??

????

?????2017???????????????average contract salary??4014??5545??4512??4500????????????????????????

????

???????????2017????????????38.5%???????????????????choosing a job that doesn't match their major at college???????5.7%?????????????????????????????84.2%?65.9%?65.2%?????????????????????????????????55.2%?48.5%?47.1%?