《中国警告日本勿干扰中俄军演》

China has scrambled fighter jets, after two Japanese jets entered China’s airspace in the East China Sea, where it was holding joint maritime drills with Russia.

The Defense Ministry said on its website that the Japanese aircraft entered the zone on Saturday, despite "no fly" notices having been issued before the naval drills. The Ministry says the intrusion is a serious violation of international laws and standards, which could have easily caused a misunderstanding and even led to a mid-air accident.

China has lodged an urgent representation to Japan and urged Japan to respect China and Russia’s rights to hold naval exercises. China says Japan will bear all the consequences if it does not stop stop reconnaissance and interference activities.
