Recently a group of photos showing a birthday celebration went viral online. In the photos, what looks like hundreds of male students are holding a birthday party for just one girl.

The girl, named Wu Xun, is the only female student among all her classmates majoring in marine engineering at Shanghai's Merchant Marine College. What's more, Wu is the first female marine engineering major in the history of the college. The department had only ever admitted male students before her.

During the party, all 280 male students stood in rows and sang to Wu for her birthday. They also prepared a cake for her. Two students rolled the cake into the party on a trolley, stopping right in front of Wu. Extremely moved, Wu cut the cake into eight sections to share with the eight classes in her department.
