

《韩国万人呼吁取消济州岛对中国的免签政策》

导读:据报道,因近期接连发生中国游客在韩国济州岛犯罪事件,有韩国网民发起呼吁取消济州岛免签制度的请愿,获得上万人支持。

South Korea's Jeju Island may soon abandon a program allowing Chinese tourists to enter without a visa. According to a Yonhap report, due to a surge in crime committed by Chinese tourists, a petition is rapidly gaining signatures to reform Jeju's visa law and restrict Chinese visitors.

Since 2002 when the visa-free policy took effect, over one hundred country's citizens are permitted to stay 30 days in Jeju. However, as cases pile up involving violent Chinese tourists, Koreans have begun circulating a petition online seeking to restrict visa rights. Over 10,000 people have already signed.

The petition comes after a 50-year-old Chinese tourist stabbed a praying 61-year-old Korean woman in a chapel on September 17, 2016. Earlier this month, a group of eight Chinese tourists were arrested after they fiercely beat a restaurant owner and two others. The owner had requested the group not drink alcohol bought from outside.
