A blue-eyed chaiwala is starting a new career as a model after a photo of the dreamy-eyed chap went viral.

????????(chaiwala)??

Arshad Khan, 18, was manning a tea stall at the Itwar Bazaar market in Pakistan's capital city, Islamabad, when an aspiring photographer Jiah Ali captured him working.

only four days after the image was posted on social media, Arshad has bagged himself a modelling contract with online retailer Fitin.pk. It seems Fitin.pk hope his smoldering unkempt mane and stubblewill attract some extra visitors to their site. Now Arshad can be seen posing in a collection of tv series-themed tops on Fitin.pk.com, a retailer run by university students.

But the model is taking everything in his stride. When the Samaa TV interviewer asked if he was open to acting in movies, Khan casually replied 'sure I will.'

Social media users also saw this young man's potential, as his piercing stare has caused Arshad to trend on Twitter in several countries.

The shared adoration of the chaiwala has even led people to jest that it has smoothed tense relations between India and Pakistan over the countries' security.

He's beautiful with stunning eyes and great features but people from that area often have very striking eye colour and are very handsome. Still, I hope he makes lots of money out of it!

Good looking guy, glad to see a single photo changed his life for the better. I bet his heritage could be Afghan (huge numbers moved during the 90s civil war and prior wars), as some Afghans, especially from the Hazara community and other minorities, have incredible looking eyes (as seen from famous Afghan Girl photo).
