Indonesian rescuers say at least 39 people have been rescued and three bodies recovered after a ferry capsized in a storm on Saturday.

The ship was carrying 108 passengers including 14 children and 10 crew. It was on its way from Kolaka to Siwa, both towns on Sulawesi island.

A spokesperson for Indonesia's Transportation Ministry said the port of Kolaka received a distress call from the vessel's crew on Saturday afternoon amid high waves.

A rescue operation is underway, involving ships, planes and volunteer boats.
