

《借助英国口音约妹 4个小伙在美国成功脱单》

Four British lads travelled thousands of miles to put their British accents to use pulling American girls, and it worked. Crissy Milazzo writing for Vice News travelled with the four lads – William, Dan, Carl and Chris – when they visited San Diego on New Year 's Eve, as part of their international pickup tour.

4??(Vice???????)????????????????????????????????

Milazzo reports that the four used their British accents to impress girls and have as much date as possible – just like the bumbling Colin (Kris Marshall) from Love Actually, who used his British charm to seduce American girls.

??(????·?????)????????????????????????????

The lads weren't overly impressed with San Diego though, despite all of them pulling, with William saying: "A British accent is nothing [in San Diego,] but middle America? It's the best tool in the world."

????????????????????????????????????(?????)????????????????????????????????????(???)???"

The tradition started two years ago and Dan told Vice that they don't make any special effort: "We wear our street clothes out, casual clothes, and birds are like 'Oh, you look so nice! You're dressed up!'"

[cn]????????????????????Vice????????????????????"??'?????????!"????????!"?????"

The lads weren't entirely honest with the American ladies and admitted to lying to girls when they met them, saying they were writers from GQ, or the entire band the Arctic Monkeys.

???????????????????????????????????? GQ????????????????????????

The boys don't think what they're doing is wrong and say they're not pick-up artists and instead they're just "fun-loving English people having a good time".

??"????????????????????"?

