

《投资者热衷于中小型企业》

This year's CES expo attracted thousands of investors from 150 countries. One thing that's caught their attention is small to medium-sized enterprises focusing on technological innovation.

There are many newly-established companies in this exhibit hall. They are at a budding stage. So I hope to take advantage of this opportunity to see more new technology or new applications.

"We have our eyes set on China's small and medium-sized enterprises, because big companies in China are closing the gap with global giants. So from an investor's point of view, in early stage investment, we are more focused on SMEs, to try and keep an eye out for the black sheep. Lots of SMEs come here with original and highly technological products," said Song Qingsong, investor.

